Wm. Cody and daughter passed through here Monday night on their way to the Big Horn Basin to the Cody Colony. Ye scribe took breakfast with them on the "liner" Tuesday morning, this side of Alliance. We observed the famous scout has changed very much in appearance since the writer first met him 28 years ago last fall. Instead of his long locks hanging about his shoulders as they did then, he has his hair braided in two rolls and pinned upon his head much like a woman, his hair and beard are quite grey. He still wears the broad brim hat, but the buckskin suit and buffalo leggings were substituted with a very plain grey suit such as civilians wear. Instead of the leather belt set with cartridges, revolvers, bowie knives and scalp was a heavy solid watch chain and locket that hung from his vest pocket. His trusty rifle which he handled so dextrously was also missing. It was no more "Buffalo Bill" as he was then known, but the Hon Wm. Cody whose fame has become world wide, through his "Wild West."

DIED—Mrs. Horrace Lang, Friday January 17. Funeral Sunday. We learn from R. D. Callen that Mrs. Horrace Lang died last Friday morning after giving birth to twins, only one of the twins is living. The REPUBLICAN extends the sympathy of the vicinity and acquaintances to the relatives in their great bereavement.

Close beside the Guernsey line of the Burlington, between Fort Laramie and Guernsey, where the railroad follows the course of the old Mormon trail for miles through Wyoming, there is an old grave with a bit of history. Last spring there was found a few feet from the grave an old cart-wheel on which had been carved with a knife this legend, "Rebecca Winters-1846" This date is that of the Mormon exodus to Utah, and the idea naturally suggested itself that a member of the party of 500 persons who accompanied Brigham Young on his memorable trip had been buried there. It seemed probable that some of the friends or relatives of the deceased might be located, even after the lapse of so many years, and with that end in view, the information was given to one of the Salt Lake papers. Within three days following the publication of the story, the Burlington general agent at Salt Lake received thirty letters from members of the family and a call from a gentleman more than sixty years of age who said his mother, Rebecca Winters, had been a member of the Brigham Young party and had died on the trip overland. A neat fence has been placed around the grave by the Burlington, and members of the Winters family in Utah are now collecting a fund for the purpose of erecting a monument over the remains of the unfortunate woman.

Marvelous Liquid Air.

Broken Bow is to have an opportunity, February, 1st, of witnessing an exhibition of genuine Liquid Air, the much discussed scientific marvel of the age. This treat is made possible by the efforts of Prof. Macy, who, when he saw the exhibitions announced in the larger cities of the state, quietly set to work to secure the attraction for city, with the result that contracts for its appearance here have been closed. The demonstrations and lectures will be seen at the Broken Bow Opera House on the above date. Fully two score of marvelous experiments with this mysterious and powerful fluid will be performed by Prof. Patty, the most skilled demonstrator and lecturer in this line in America, who will be equipped with an extensive apparatus and use several gallons of the liquid during the demonstrations. These Liquid Air lectures and demonstrations are short visits into the fairyland of Science, yet all the startling effects are so thoroughly explained that one wonders how such an important discovery could be so simple. Prof. Macy has assumed considerable personal expense in securing this high class and novel attraction for Broken Bow, and it is to be hoped our citizens will substantially show their appreciation of his efforts, especially so, since all surplus receipts are to be devoted to securing additional apparatus for the schools.
